
JOOLA Tour Finals Progress Reports

Posted by alantabletennis - 2007/10/20 17:02

Dr. Azmy approved the draws and we are under way...;-) Amanda Ho is here set up as the JOOLA vendor , the Stanford Table Tennis Club is doing hot lunch delivery as a fundraiser, Dennis Davis is promoting the World Junior Championships here in Decemeber, Rajul is prmoting the new ICC program at the Cupertino YMCA...and 300 players (nearly) are beginning their morning matches...

The 2007 JOOLA Tour Finals are under way!

I'll post event results and news throughout the weekend wherever possible.

Must say, most importantly, that Shimon Kolkowitz and his Stanford Club mates have been unbelievably good in supporting this event..Shimon has worked his butt off to coordinate everything here.

The Rockstar Freakishly Fit Wii Table Tennis truck is one stylin' vehicle...with JOOLA displayed nearly as large as the ADIDAS logo...almost like we were similarly sized companies or something...its a carnival atmosphere here...I see a guy reading his "Principles of Neural Science" text, kids squealing and teens necking and Saul telling stories and looks like a Tour Final to me!

Its a quiet time for the Open Singles participants, you see them in various corners and niches, gluing, stretching, clearing their minds for the Open Singles Groups that begin in 30 Minutes. Everyone else is either playing their own matches, talking to Dennis about the World Junors or grabbing a good seat in the Arena...1550 and 2000 RR's were packed! great turnout...

The B and C matches in the OPEN SINGLES RR are the pivotal ones, with two players advancing. Sean O'Neill pointed out to us a few years ago that ITTF requires B/C as the final match when 2 advance, and they are weighted with drama, fer sure. ;-)

Jiaqi and Sara will play the women's final when the RR groups are done.

Re:JOOLA Tour Finals Progress Reports

The player reaction to the new doubles rotation that was used here is not positive. Bruce Liu points out that the right-handed player serving from the left court is hardpressed to vacate space for his right-handed partner to play anything but backhand against the service return. He feels this is a deep disadvantage. Other players described the system as hard to remember, anti-intuitive and confusing. Those are remarks similar to one written on my 8th grade report card, so a bit of nostalgia for me.
